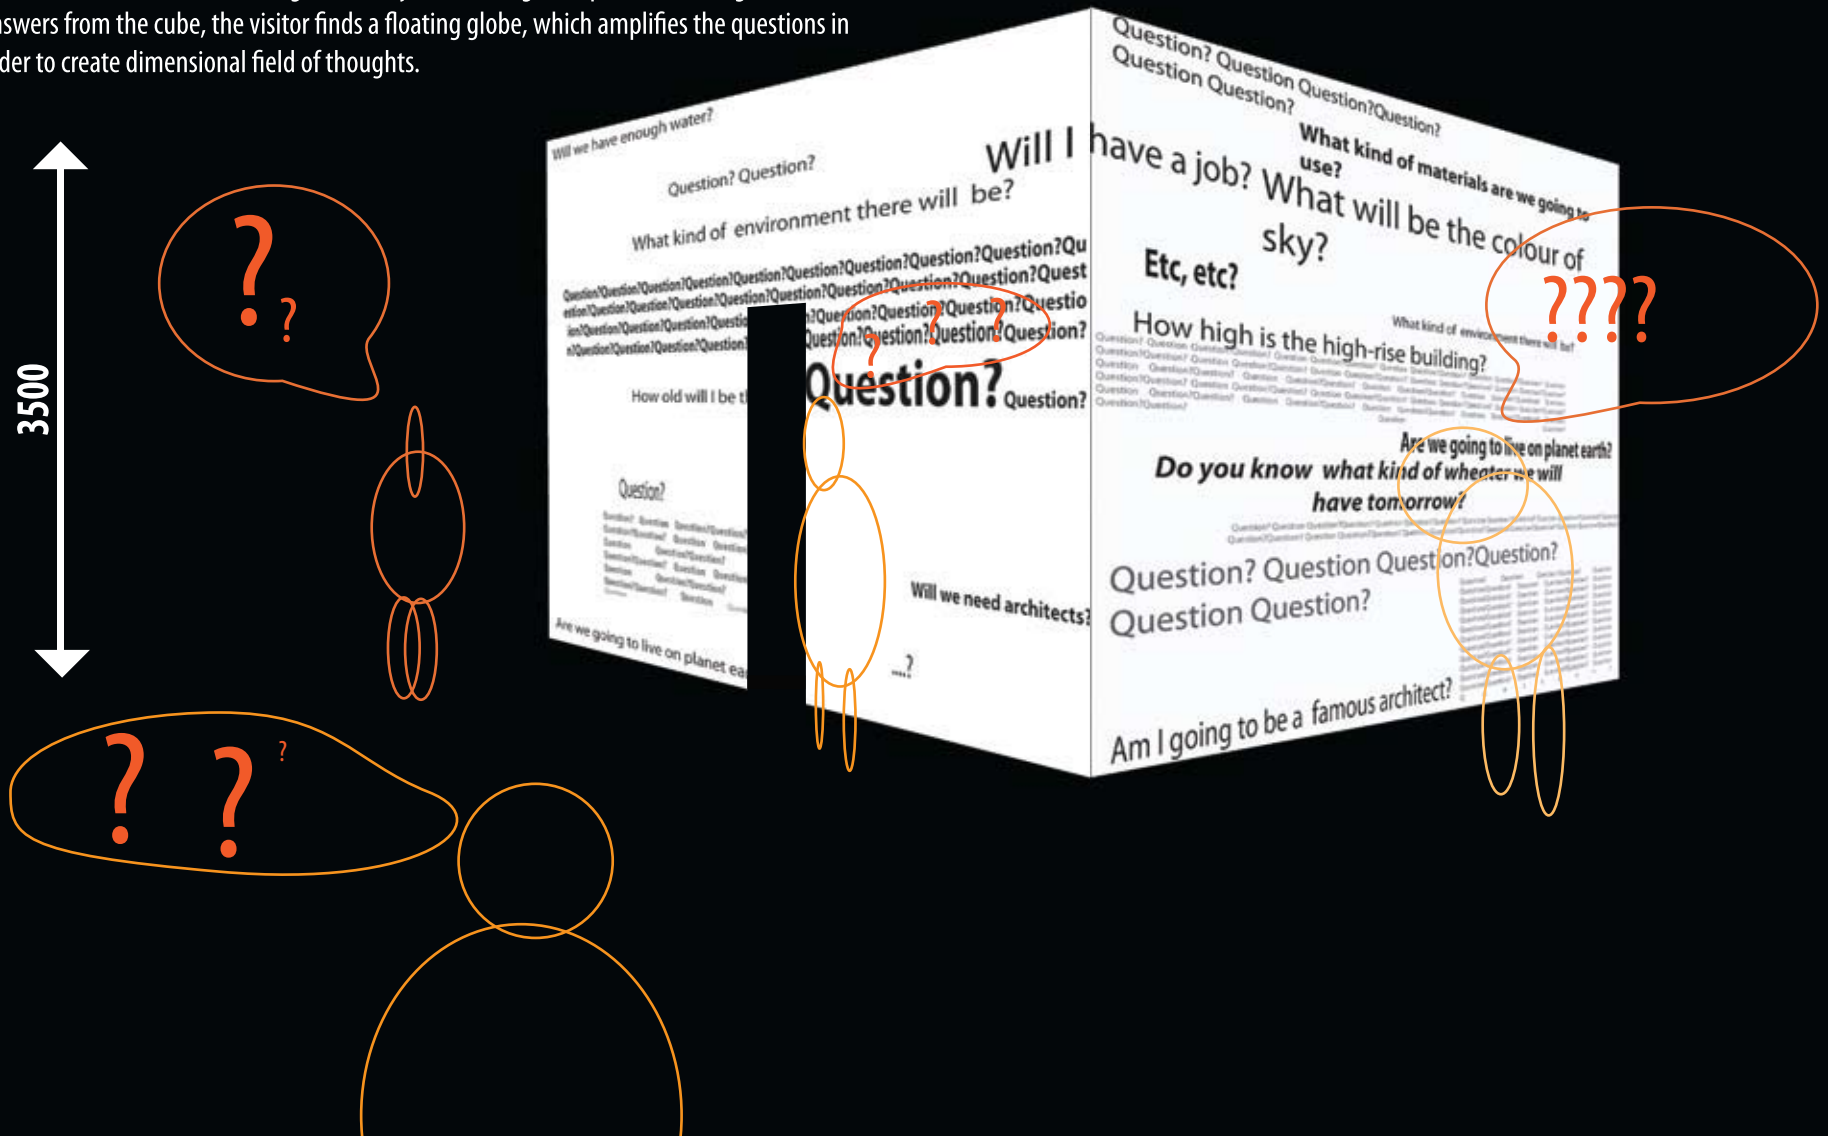
Design 2050

The exhibition consist of cube and globe which floats with magnetic levitations help. The exterior sides of the cube are illustrated with questions. The questions will be collected from architects and engineers of baltic states. And the questions will be about year of 2050.


The installation consist only of questions. So every visitor can pick a question/questions which broadens their mind and gives a subject for thought. In place of finding some answers from the cube, the visitor finds a floating globe, which amplifies the questions in order to create dimensional field of thoughts.
